

Hidey holes, complexes and mazes!

These ideas apply not only to bunnies and other small fluffies, but they are also great fun for cats and even enjoyed by some parrots!

For a fun box hidey hole, cut a few holes big enough for your pet to fit through in the top and/or sides of a large, sturdy cardboard box. Your pets will enjoy popping in one hole and out the other, or trying to catch their friend through the holes.

For a complex, Do the same but join a number of boxes, making different adjoining levels and tunnels!

Mazes are more challenging, but also so very fun for your fluffies! They tend to be most stable when secured by cutting opposing slots that interlock where 2 boards cross. While tape and glue might be easier, they are not really safe!
